Chiesa postconciliare e migrazioni - Parolin Gaetano 2010-12-01

Le migrazioni sono una realtà complessa, diffusa e strutturale, che negli ultimi decenni ha conosciuto uno sviluppo senza precedenti. Esse presentano inoltre risvolti spesso drammatici, come testimonia la cronaca ormai quotidiana. Alla crescita del fenomeno si accompagna, peraltro, lo sviluppo di politiche restrittive e di espressioni xenofobe e discriminatorie. Lo studio presenta una lettura interdisciplinare della realtà migratoria, allo scopo di evidenziare le convergenze significative che risultano dal dialogo tra scienze umane e scienze teologiche. Il carattere processuale e relazionale delle migrazioni, la dimensione aperta delle identità nazionali, etniche e culturali, offrono all'approccio teologico la possibilità di cogliere uno spazio ermeneutico che ci permette di parlare di Dio, della persona umana e del mondo, di Cristo e della Chiesa. L'analisi del rapporto profondo tra missione e migrazioni arriva ad ipotizzare la missione tra, per e con i migranti come un nuovo paradigma della missione stessa della Chiesa. Sulla scorta dei documenti della Chiesa postconciliare risulta inoltre evidente il passaggio dalla pastorale migratoria di conservazione ad una pastorale missionaria, dialogica e comunionale. Tempo delle migrazioni, il nostro è soprattutto tempo dello straniero. In questo contesto assume importanza il tema del riconoscimento, assoluto ed incondizionato, reciproco e riconoscente dell'altro, che apre la via alla relazione amorosa, nella quale trovano significato e si incontrano alterità e identità, unità e molteplicità, differen-za e uguaglianza, periferia e centro, distanza e prossimità.

Captures some special moments and some key issues at the heart of the transition from Pope Benedict XVI to Francis, with the intuition that this unexpected transition reveals something which is not only a special "Catholic event," but also a particular historical moment in a tradition in flux.

Environment, Social Justice, and the Media in the Age of the Anthropocene - Elizabeth G. Dobbins 2020-02-28

Environment, Social Justice, and the Media in the Age of Anthropocene addresses three imminent challenges to human society in the age of the Anthropocene. The first challenge involves the survival of the species; the second the breakdown of social justice; and the third the inability of the media to provide global audiences with an adequate orientation about these issues. The notion of the Anthropocene as a geological age shaped by human intervention implies a new understanding of the human context that influences the physical and biological sciences. Human existence continues to be affected by the physical and biological reality from which it evolved but, in turn, it affects that reality as well. This work addresses this paradox by bringing together the contributions of researchers from very different disciplines in conversation about the complex relationships between the physical/biological world and the human world to offer different perspectives and solutions in establishing social and environmental justice in the age of the Anthropocene.

Una esperienza di rinnovamento monastico nel Regno di Sicilia dei secoli XII-XV: Giovanni da Tufara e la congregazione di Santa Maria del Gualdo - Donato D'Amico 2022-10-17

[Italiano]: La storiografia degli ultimi decenni, sulla base dell'edizione di numerose fonti, ha provveduto a revisionare il tema della diffusione della riforma monastica nell'Italia Meridionale. A fronte del marginale influsso di movimenti più largamente affermatasi in Europa, si registra invece la nascita di una pluralità di esperienze alla ricerca di un modello autoctono di stampo eremitico e pastorale. Fra queste, a pieno titolo, va inscritta anche la congregazione di S. Maria del Gualdo. Attraverso l'analisi di un eterogeneo complesso di fonti superstiti questo lavoro si prefigge di ricostruire la genesi del carisma fondazionale e la storia della famiglia religiosa. Muovendo dalle diverse proposte agiografiche prodotte per il fondatore, Giovanni da Tufara, verranno sondate le dinamiche relative al processo di istituzionalizzazione. L'appoggio della Sede Apostolica faciliterà, intanto, l'equilibrio dei rapporti con i vescovi locali per l'organizzazione e l'espansione religiosa, mentre le autorità monarchiche e le aristocrazie locali contribuiranno alla stabilizzazione economica e patrimoniale, fino al tentativo di assurgere a signoria monastica. Il modello religioso proposto, oltre a rispondere alle esigenze di ideali propri della seconda rinascita dell'eremitismo, si struttura in un sensibile coinvolgimento nell'azione pastorale, contribuendo persino alla scomparsa del fenomeno delle chiese private. L'anelito da parte dei laici di partecipare al modello di vita monastica troverà espressione nella forma giuridica della oblazione di sé, nella prassi commemorativa, nella sepoltura presso il monastero, nonché nell'attività di ospizi legati alla rete monastica e disseminati lungo le vie di pellegrinaggio al santuario dell'Arcangelo. Per una serie di concause legate a fenomeni naturali (pestilenze, terremoti), a crisi interne di carattere religioso e infine al radicale mutamento del sistema economico di età aragonese la congregazione non riuscirà a rimodulare la propria organizzazione, avviandosi così verso il completo dissolvimento che sopraggiungerà all'inizio della modernità./[English]: The historiography of recent decades, based on the edition of numerous sources, has revised the issue of the spread of monastic reform in Southern Italy. In the face of the marginal influence of more widely established movements in Europe, there is instead the emergence of a plurality of experiences in search of an indigenous model of a hermitic and pastoral style. Among these, in its own right, should be inscribed the congregation of St. Mary of Gualdo. Through the analysis of a heterogeneous complex of surviving sources this work aims to reconstruct the genesis of the founding charism and the history of the religious family. Starting from the various hagiographic proposals produced for the founder, John of Tufara, the dynamics related to the institutionalization process will be probed. The support of the Apostolic See will facilitate, meanwhile, the balancing of relations with local bishops for religious organization and expansion, while monarchical authorities and local aristocracies will contribute to economic and patrimonial stabilization, up to the attempt to rise to monastic lordship. The proposed religious model, in addition to responding to the demands of ideals proper to the second revival of hermitism, is structured in a sensitive involvement in pastoral action, even contributing to the disappearance of the phenomenon of private churches. The yearning on the part of the laity to participate in the model of monastic life will find expression in the legal form of self-oblation, memorial practice, burial at the monastery, as well as in the activity of hospices linked to the monastic network and scattered along the pilgrimage routes to the shrine of the Archangel. Due to a series of concauses related to natural phenomena (plagues, earthquakes), internal crises of a religious nature, and finally the radical change in the economic system of the Aragonese age, the congregation will not succeed in remodeling its organization, thus heading toward the complete dissolution that will occur at the beginning of modernity.

Law and the Christian Tradition in Italy - Orazio Condorelli 2020-07-02
Firmly rooted on Roman and canon law, Italian legal culture has had an impressive influence on the civil law tradition from the Middle Ages to present day, and it is rightly regarded as "the cradle of the European legal culture." Along with Justinian's compilation, the US Constitution, and the French Civil Code, the Decretum of Master Gratian or the so-called Glossa ordinaria of Accursius are one of the few legal sources that have influenced the entire world for centuries. This volume explores a millennium-long story of law and religion in Italy through a series of twenty-six biographical chapters written by distinguished legal scholars and historians from Italy and around the world. The chapters range from the first Italian civilians and canonists, Irnerius and Gratian in the early twelfth century, to the leading architect of the Second Vatican Council, Pope Paul VI. Between these two bookends, this volume offers notable case studies of familiar civilians like Bartolo, Baldo, and Gentili and familiar canonists like Hostiensis, Panormitanus, and Gasparri but also a number of other jurists in the broadest sense who deserve much more attention especially outside of Italy. This diversity of international and methodological perspectives gives the volume its unique character. The book will be essential reading for academics working in the areas of Legal History, Law and Religion, and Constitutional Law and will appeal to scholars, lawyers, and students interested in the interplay between religion and law in the era of globalization.

Gramsci and the Emancipation of the Subaltern Classes - Marcos Del Roio 2022-04-01

This book outlines essential issues of Antonio Gramsci's thought, from his relationship to other political thinkers, including Rosa Luxemburg, Lenin, and Machiavelli; the development of his key conceptual categories; and the applicability of those categories in contemporary contexts. The author demonstrates how Gramsci's revolutionary strategy begins with the knowledge of the subaltern classes' common sense, and their elements of rebellion, in order to establish a dialectical relationship between intellectuals and the masses. That relationship promotes collective intellectual progress, ultimately leading to an effective philosophy of praxis, founded on labor and a new hegemony. The book demonstrates that Gramsci's thought offers possibilities for understanding the serious crises of today.
